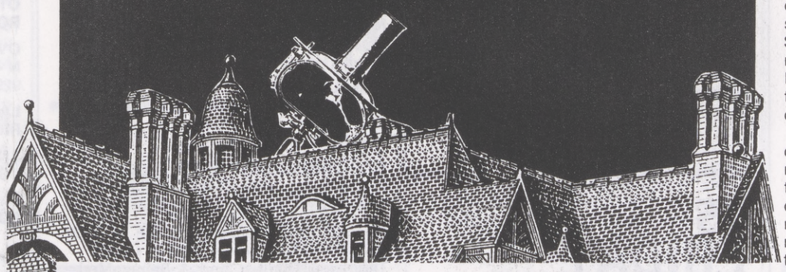
Two New Endowed Chairs, Nursing's First



Two new chairs have been established on campus. One is the School of Nursing's first, the James P. and Marjorie A. Livingston Chair in Nursing. The other is the Julius H. Comroe, Jr., MD, Chair in Pulmonary Biology.

The Livingston Chair in Nursing is named for James P. Livingston, executive vice president and director of National Medical Enterprises, Inc., and his wife Marjorie.

The Livingstons have made several generous contributions to the campus through the Chancellor's Fund, the Vision Research Campaign, and the Moffitt Hospital Modernization Program. James Livingston is a member of the UCSF Board of Overseers and the UCSF Foundation Trustees, and chairman of the Chancellor's Associates. The Livingston Chair recognizes the contributions and educational needs of nursing service directors, particularly in rural settings in California.

The Comroe Chair in Pulmonary Biology honors the late director of the Cardiovascular Research Institute and Morris Herzstein Professor of Biology.

A distinguished researcher, educator and historian, and one of the world's leading specialists in the physiology and pathophysiology of the lung, Comroe was the driving force that turned the CVRI into one of the largest and most respected centers of heart and lung research in the world. As its director for 16 years, from 1957 to 1973, he built the Institute into a model center for multidisciplinary research on the diseases of the cardiovascular and pulmonary-respiratory systems. Comroe died in July 1984.

A $7.5 million five-year contract has been received by UCSF to establish an AIDS Treatment Evaluation Unit at SFGH. The contract from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, part of the National Institutes of Health, is to test experimental drugs in persons with AIDS and AIDS-related complex (ARC).

John Mills, MD, associate professor of medicine and chief of infectious diseases at SFGH, and Paul Volberding, MD, assistant professor of medicine and director of AIDS activities and oncology at SFGH, will direct the UCSF-affiliated program. They will work with the other AIDS experts and staff of the internationally recognized AIDS clinic established at SFGH in 1982.

The focus of the program will be clinical studies, which will include 14 institutions from across the US. A total of $100 million will be given to the 14 medical centers over the next five years. Each center will treat more than 50 patients during the initial phase of the drug trials.

The centers will test experimental drugs that have potential for the treatment of AIDS and the various opportunistic infections and cancers that develop in AIDS patients. While there is no treatment yet proven effective, researchers continue to search for drugs that may inhibit the growth of the AIDS retrovirus. Other drugs which can revitalize or strengthen the immune system also will be tested.

Patients will be tested at SFGH. Essential laboratory support will come from the UCSF laboratories of Jay Levy, MD; John Gambertoglio, PharmD; Daniel Stites, MD; and Conrad Casavant, PhD.

The UCSF Police Department reports that UCSF employees who use the Irving Street entrance of the Millberry garage are driving around stopped MUNI streetcars. Not only is this illegal, but it seriously endangers the lives of MUNI passengers who may be getting on or off the trolly. The Police Department reminds all offenders that they will be cited.

NEWS BRIEFS

The most recent advances in the clinical management of AIDS patients and the latest findings that were reported at the June Paris AIDS meetings will highlight a two-day program on Friday and Saturday, July 25 and 26, in Cole Hall.

In addition to attending keynote presentations, nurses and other health professionals who care for persons with AIDS or ARC may choose from four concurrent sessions covering basic medical and epidemiologic AIDS/ARC information, medical implications, psychological issues, groups at risk and legal, social, political and educational issues.

The program is sponsored by UCSF's AIDS Health Project, Adult Immunodeficiencies Clinic, Nursing Education and Research, AIDS Clinical Research Center, and LPPI; SFGH Wards 5A and 86, Staff Development and Research, and AWARE Project; SF Department of Public Health's AIDS Activity Office and Public Health Nursing; and Hospice of San Francisco, Shanti Project, SF AIDS Foundation, Women's AIDS Network and AIDS Project of the East Bay.

Tuition is $80 with CE credit, $40 without for all paid and volunteer staff of sponsoring agencies; $100 with CE credit, $80 without for others; persons with AIDS/ARC complimentary; full-time students $40; single day registration $60. For further information call x67360.

Five School of Dentistry faculty and one staff employee were honored at the Department of Growth and Development's graduation dinner for second-year orthodontic and pediatric dentistry residents in June.

Orthodontic residents honored Robert S. Quinn, assistant clinical professor, as the outstanding clinical faculty member; Ib L. Neilsen, associate clinical professor, as the outstanding academic faculty member; and Terry A. Rodden, administrative assistant, for outstanding service to the orthodontic residency program.

Pediatric dentistry residents honored Robert L. Boyd, assistant professor, for his outstanding education contribution to orthodontics; Penelope J. Leggott, assistant professor, for her outstanding contribution to academic education; and Paul R. Barkin, clinical professor, for his outstanding contribution to clinical education.

The School of Nursing's Department of Mental Health and Community Nursing has changed its name to the Department of Mental Health, Community and Administrative Nursing, to better reflect the department's responsibilities.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton, NJ, has awarded the UCSF/Stanford Clinical Scholars Program a three-year continuation grant of $1.15 million, to be shared equally by both institutions. This is the Foundation's fourth renewal of continuous support for the program, whose members are analyzing the health care system in order to improve it.

Since its inception in 1974, the Clinical Scholars Program has trained 61 physicians who are committed to clinical medicine but have sought broader training related to the organization of health service, improvement of medical practice, and public policy in health. One of the goals of the program is to provide graduate clinicians opportunities to research areas—humanities and the social sciences, for example—which are not usually part of medical education, and equip them to approach health care problems from a wider, interdisciplinary perspective.

Reelected to three-year terms on the UCSF Foundation Board of Trustees are: Maynard A. Amerine, PhD, professor emeritus, enology, UCD; Maurice Galante, MD, professor of surgery, UCSF; Nan Hearst, partner, Hearst and Chen Architects; C. Lester Hogan, consultant and director, Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corporation; Tina Long, journalist; Charlotte C. Poole, journalist; and Eugene E. Trefethen, Jr., retired chair, Kaiser Industries Corporation and proprieter, Trefethen Vineyards.

Some 250 neuroscientists from around the world doing leading research in auditory physiology were in San Francisco earlier this month for the International Union of Physiological Sciences Satellite Symposium on Hearing.

Hosted by UCSF's Coleman and Epstein Otoneurological Laboratories, the symposium was considered the premiere international meeting in the auditory neurosciences. A.J. Hudspeth, MD, PhD, and Michael Merzenich, PhD, UCSF professors of otolaryngology and physiology, were members of the symposium organizing committee.

The UCSF Committee for Arts and Lectures (CAL) is looking for new members with fresh ideas on campus entertainment. Call either Karen Attix or Linda Spackman at x62542 to find out how to become a CAL member.

Two UCSF faculty will present the 19th annual John E. Gurley Memorial Lectureship Program on Friday, August 1, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Miyako Hotel, Japan Center, 1625 Post Street.

Warden Noble, DDS, clinical professor and co-director of the graduate prosthodontics program, Department of Restorative Dentistry; and Paul B. Robertson, DDS, associate dean of academic programs and professor and chair of the Department of Stomatology, will present "Optimal Periodontal/Restorative Interrelationships—New Concepts and Techniques."

Topics will include etiology and pathogenesis of periodontal disease, alterations of the periodontal environment with restorative dentistry, rationale and selection of therapy for periodontal disease, techniques for periodontal prosthesis and future trends in periodontal/restorative care.

Continuing education credit is available. For registration information call x61101.

UCSF will hold a Food Drive for People with AIDS/ARC from Monday, July 21 to Friday, August 1. Donations will be accepted in the lobbies of the Ambulatory Care Center and the University Hospital building and at the front desk in LPPI. Items needed include tuna fish, bottled juices, peanut butter, breakfast cereals, canned fruit, soups (especially chunky), tomato sauce, mayonnaise, macaroni and cheese, coffee, tea, vitamins, toilet paper, shampoo, disposable razors, toothpaste and laundry soap.

The American Heart Association, California Affiliate, has presented the Albert B. Klug, MD, Program Award to the Community Hospital of Santa Rosa, Resident Doctors' Speaker's Bureau.

The Speaker's Bureau was one of 700 programs nominated for the award, the only statewide award the AHA gives.

The Bureau is made up of 28 UCSF postdoctoral students who are resident physicians at Community Hospital. Through the program, the resident physicians give ongoing talks on vital health issues to schools in the Santa Rosa area. Residents Steve Scharmann and Aurelia Nettiv are responsible for spearheading the program.

New Graduate Student Association officers for 1986-87 are: Marilyn Underwood (pharmacology), president, internal affairs; Rindi Campbell (nursing), president, external affairs; Wanda Kelley (pathology), vice president, basic and social sciences; Thomas Chimento (speech/hearing sciences), vice president, finance; Kimberley Schorr (nursing), vice president, nursing; Linda Green (medical anthropology), lobby campus director.

In an effort to help expedite campus mail delivery to SFGH, the Mailroom suggests the following address format: name of individual, department, SFGH room and building numbers, box number. For further information call x61124.
